Latest Update on Oman

The following information was provided by Kanoo Shipping, Oman.

Sohar roundabouts are partly blocked by protestors but access to the port and roads to Dubai and Muscat are currently open. At present, Sohar port is open and working as normal. All terminals are also working.

In Muscat (PSQ), the port has come to a complete stand still with protests ongoing by the port entrance. All vessel operations have stopped and any vessels arriving will have berthing delays due to the knock on affect of vessels not working. Presently, we do not know how long this will go on.

In Salalah, day to day business is going on with currently no reports of any disruptions.

All Kanoo staff is safe with no problems to report.

Below is a consolidated update of the major seaports in Oman:

Sohar

- Terminal & Port is operating normal working hours (24 hours).
- Protest – Peaceful protest close to Sohar Globe roundabout & no violence has been reported.
- Transportation - Operating with delays (Currently all vehicles are using the service road).
- IT / Telecommunications – fully functioning.
- Agency office – Working with full staff

Muscat

- Terminal – employees are currently on protest. Vessel berthing, unberthing and all other marine operations have been suspended for the time being. There are several vessels waiting outside at anchorage.
- Protest – Peaceful protest close to their work places & no violence has been reported.
- Transportation - Operating without delays but all access to the port has been shut down.
- IT / Telecommunications – fully functioning at present.
- Agency office – Working with full staff

Salalah

- Terminal is operating normal working hours (from 0800 to 2000 hours in general cargo & 24 hours in container terminal).
- Protest – Going on in close proximity to the ministry offices. So far, the protest has been peaceful with no reports of any violence.
- Transportation - Operating without any delays.
- IT / Telecommunications – fully functioning.
- Agency office – Working with full staff.

We are monitoring the situation closely and will revert if any new information becomes available.
